

YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO A SHOWCASE OF USGS GENETICS AND GENOMICS:

Genetics Helping Solve Today's Conservation Issues

MARCH 10, 2010
10:00am – 2:00pm

stop by to...

Meet the Scientists

Listen to Short Talks

View Posters of Conservation Genetics

Informal Setting

Tasty Edibles Will Be Served!

South Interior Building,
South Interior Auditorium
1951 Constitution Avenue, NW

Examples of exciting state-of-the-art research includes genetics to determine populations and recover endangered species, genetics that can identify wildlife indicated in mailings; using genetics to minimize impacts of alternative energy development and to identify impacts of climate change and the interseasonal movement of birds; using genetic techniques to develop wildlife vaccines to protect endangered species from disease and much much more.