

Bullying in the Workplace

"Bullying in the Workplace" is an awareness training designed to provide insight on the impact "bullying" has within the work environment. Participants will learn to recognize bullying behaviors and identify strategies to address.

Cheryl Caldwell

Cheryl Caldwell is the Program Manager for the Office of Collaborative Action and Dispute Resolution (CADR) in Reston, Virginia. She has an extensive background in mediation, facilitation, team interventions and conflict coaching,

For more information about CADR services, please visit our website at: Human Capital-Conflict Management: <http://www.usgs.gov/humancapital/cm/index.html>

Terry Scruggs

Terry Scruggs is a registered mediator and Collaboration Specialist with the Collaborative Action and Dispute Resolution office (CADR) at USGS. She earned her Bachelor's Degree from the University of Maryland. She has been a civil servant for 20 years, with the majority of her career devoted to working with management and employees as an Employee and Labor Relations Specialist in the Human Resources Department.